State Will Confer With Town On Rt. 28 Interchanges

More than 60 youngsters passed their initial swimming tests at Pomp's pond this summer. Some of them are pictured here, as they gathered to begin the intermediate classes which take them a step closer to being "senior" swimmers. (Look Photo)

No Decisions Made Yet On Their Location

A firm decision on new Route 28 interchanges has not yet been made.

And the state will make every effort to cooperate with the town in that regard.

Commissioner John A. Volpe made known his department's feelings on the matter in a letter to Stafford A. Lindsay, secretary of the board of selectmen.

"It is our desire to be helpful," Volpe's letter read, "and, accordingly, when the project is being worked up for construction, my design engineer will discuss the subject with the officials of the town of Andover. At that time a decision will be made."

The letter also revealed that the state department of public works has taken serious note of the hearing held some weeks ago, when many residents expressed disapproval of a Dascomb rd. interchange and favored an interchange at Lowell jct.

Lawrence Electric Is Largest Taxpayer; Many Pay Over $700

The Lawrence Electric company once again is the town's largest single taxpayer.

The American Woolen company was the largest last year.

The Electric company will pay a total of $62,314.76 this year. It is made up of $625.41 real estate tax and $61,689.35 personal property.

American Woolen company is second, with a straight real estate tax of $42,400.

Third on the list of large taxpayers is Phillips academy. It will pay a combined $26,720.05. Of that amount, $927.50 is a personal property tax and $25,792.55 is real estate.

Fourth largest taxpayer is the Tyer Rubber company. It will pay $22,652.21 real estate taxes this year.

In fifth place is the New England Telephone and Telegraph company with $22,450 personal property taxes.

The Lawrence Gas company takes sixth place, with a combined tax of $18,366.25. Its tax is made up of $2226 real estate and $16,140.25 in personal property.

What? No Water?

Nature certainly doesn't seem to do things half-way. The ban on the use of water sprinklers which went into effect last week to relieve areas in the town where water pressure was low and the above picture seem to prove it.

This very wet scene shows Shawsheen square as it looked one March day 19 years ago. I don't know the exact depth, but judging from the stone cottage which was used as a gauge every day, it was probably at least 15 feet deep. This picture was taken from a boat just in front of the luncheonette and if you can make it out you'll notice another boat coming down Haverhill st. Ball-moral st. is on the right and in the right background is York st.

When towns and cities throughout the state are declaring a state of emergency because of the extremely low water pressure in their area, this picture reminds us that things could always be worse.

Double Birthday Celebration

Mrs. Dudley Young of Union st. was hostess Tuesday evening at a joint birthday party for her husband, Dudley, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Nettie Young of Orlando, Fla. A highlight of the celebration was the presence of four generations in the Young family, Mrs. Nettie Young, Dudley Young, Allen Young and John and Barbara Young.

Guests present at the celebration were Miss Ruth Kilburn, Mrs. Dewey Young, Gaile and Vickie Young, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Young, John and Barbara Young.

Mrs. Nettie Young, after visiting with her son, plans to motor to New York with Mrs. Dewey Young and Gaile and Vickie Young and then on to Florida.

Bubble Gum Contest

The heat had little effect on the contestants in the bubble gum contest at the Shawsheen playground Aug. 4. The youngsters had a wonderful time even though there were a few minor casualties who ended up with gum in their hair, clothes and just about everywhere. What the mothers thought of the contest was another story.

Danny O'Toole was awarded the gold ribbon for the best bubble of the show, which measured 13 inches and was achieved by using two pieces of gum. In the 10-12 year-old class for the biggest bubble, Kenny DePrima was the winner using one piece of gum and ending up with a bubble measuring a little better than 12 inches across. Danny O'Toole was second with a 12-inch bubble and Teddy O'Toole was third with a 10½-inch bubble.

In the 6-9 year-old group, Linda Cataldo was the winner with a 4½-inch bubble. Frank Bleszinski was second with a 4-inch bubble and Joanne Blamire came in third with one measuring 3½ inches.

Judges for the contest were Herbert Sullivan and Nancy Jean Smith. The event for today will be the field day and fun carnival at the Ballardvale playground from 10-4.

Winners in the ping-pong tournament were Jeff Davis, Cynthia Turton and Richard Healey.

What Work Can Be Done

(Fifth in a Series)

If the town goes ahead with an industrial development group — what will it do?

It would be fair to assume that the planning board's report, to be ready perhaps by the first of the year, will specify the best possible industrial site in the community.

But there is a choice of two, Lowell Junction or a River rd. site. It would not be impossible for an industrial group to seek information about both — how much area is available, water supply, road access and other important items.

While that activity might slightly overlap the work of the planning board, it would not be out of order.

Perhaps most important, the development group could gather together all the other data that an industry needs before making a decision on relocation:

Labor availability and types, community services either already available or possible of construction, tax structure, school situation and many, many more important bits of information.

Without that type of data, no man or group can approach an industry seriously. Why not get it ready for immediate use as soon as the planning board has completed its study?

Then too, the development group might immediately do something constructive about local industrial plants which are not now in use. Perhaps, as in the case of neighboring communities, smaller businesses can be found to occupy parts of such a plant or possibly it can be purchased and sub-divided so that it would be more attractive to small businesses.

Of one thing we are completely certain.

If no industrial development group is formed until after a planning board report is made, there will be a wasteful time-lag which could injure the town badly.

It seems only sensible to move before the pressing need is upon us, before the emergency arrives.

The organization of such a group takes a certain amount of time — it must be thought out, members must become acquainted with their duties and purposes — all before actual work can begin. Then, because the members are unpaid, the work will take longer than it would under a system of hiring professional people who spend full time on such a project.

Basically, however, it is time to organize because the taxpayers deserve to be reassured that industrial development will take place. They are the ones, now, who pay the bills and they are the ones who worry about the years ahead when the tax bills will no doubt be bigger and bigger.

Now is the time to assure the homeowners that Andover does not intend to drive them up against the wall by ignoring the necessity of obtaining more industry.

It would be heartening, indeed, if a development movement would begin organizational work this summer so that it could spring into immediate action after Labor Day.

Present Pump To Sea Haven

A brief but moving ceremony was held at Camp Sea Haven, Plum Island, last Saturday, as the fire department presented a portable pump in memory of the late chief, C. Edward Buchan.

Acting deputy fire chief Woodrow Crowley made the presentation in behalf of Mr. Buchan's associates in the department.

In other years, Mr. Buchan and Deputy Crowley served as heads of the fund drive for the Infantile Paralysis foundation. In addition, the late fire chief had sent fire extinguishers to the camp each year.

The pump donated Saturday will throw a stream from the camp's swimming pool to any part of the buildings in case of fire. Deputy Crowley said Mr. Buchan had often mentioned the need for fire fighting equipment so that department members felt it to be a suitable gift.

Receiving the donation was Daniel Harrington, executive director and founder of the camp some nine years ago.

He expressed the sorrow of everyone connected with the camp at the death of Mr. Buchan. "His death was a terrible loss to Sea Haven and to the citizens of the town of Andover," he declared.

Children at the camp watched the ceremonies and sang two songs. They concluded the affair by singing God Bless America and a standing, silent tribute to Chief Buchan.

Later, the youngsters swarmed around Deputy Crowley as he demonstrated the pump. The local group toured the camp and had refreshments in the assembly hall.

Attending were Mrs. C. Edward Buchan, the late chief's wife; Mrs. Carrie Buchan, his mother; Earl Atkinson, Mrs. Buchan's brother; Mrs. Henry L. Hilton, wife of Henry L. Hilton, fire chief; Ralph Greenwood, representing the Ballardvale section of the fire department; Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Crowley, Mrs. William Coutts, Mr. and Mrs. James Deyermund and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaudette and children.

Many members of the department were prevented from attending by a severe brush fire in Ballardvale, which started in lumber slashings

Vale Sewage Problems Aired

An educational program will be instituted in an effort to persuade Ballardvale residents to connect household plumbing to existing sewer mains.

That was the end result of an hour's meeting Monday night by the board of health with Mrs. Wendell Hopkins, 12 Chester st., who had insisted that some steps be taken to get quick connections in the area.

She was the original complainant over Clark brook pollution, which was borne out by a state report two weeks ago. She had urged residents of the Vale to connect to the sewers to prevent any possible outbreak of disease among children and adults.

The meeting Monday night heard Mrs. Hopkins describe her training in polio epidemic work and her background in adult education in the polio field.

She described the Clark brook situation and urged the board to take some steps to have all residents connect their plumbing to a sewer immediately.

Legality Debated

There was considerable discussion over the legality of the board's taking that step. Dr. William V. Emmons, chairman of the board, pointed out that there has been a year's waiting period allowed by the board which would give residents until Jan. 1, 1956 to connect. He seemed in doubt as to the legality of any faster action unless an obvious nuisance exists.

Mrs. Hopkins insisted that the board has authority to order all plumbing to be connected to the sewer.

The board agreed with Mrs. Hopkins that there should be some educational activities, although admitting that two meetings in the area had produced little result.

Mrs. Hopkins said a community group is interested in organizing a general meeting, with prominent professional men as speakers. The meeting, she said, would

Town Solves Water Problem Until New 8" Mains Are Laid

The acute water problem in West Andover was eased but far from solved this week.

Town Engineer Ralph Preble, head of the water department, said he hopes a combination of regulated domestic and market garden watering plus the use of a booster pump will solve the problem, temporarily.

The pump is located in the west part of town, boosting pressure along the long, six-inch mains. They were reported last week to be practically dry, so that it was difficult in many homes to get enough water for morning coffee.

No Water Shortage

There is no shortage of water, however. Mr. Preble said the supply is adequate and that pressure is the problem at the moment.

Some 2000 feet of eight-inch pipe will be laid in the High Plain and Greenwood rd. area, possibly starting this weekend, to help relieve the situation. Mr. Preble explained that a dead end will be eliminated at these two roads.

Watering Regulations

Meanwhile, a temporary ban on watering flower beds and lawns was lifted and market gardeners were given definite hours in which they may irrigate.

Homeowners on the east side ucci, Boston rd., add rear porch; Emanuel Gaudet, County rd., relocate side porch; and John Shannon, Shawsheen rd., enlarge garage.
